Originally written to provide a useful feature for a small Adafruit Feather-based "badge," this calculator was implemented using Adafruit's CircuitPython. Intended to eventually utilize a touch-sensitized eINK display as the user interface, the project currently only supports a matrix keypad for input while output is displayed via a serial communications terminal.

CircuitPython Calculator on GitHub